Door Automation

Automated doors have been part of entry access systems at the airports, railway stations, or sensitive areas inside buildings for a long time now. However, with growing concern over the health and safety of people as businesses and educational institutions reopen, the primary benefit of utilizing automatic doors is that they are contactless and safe and reduces hand contact with outside door handles.

Automatic doors can modernize the aesthetics of the facility and are properly easy to maintain and are cost-effective. Whether you are looking to replace a standard doorway or upgrade an existing automatic swing door, Stebilex can provide you with the right fit for your facility.
