TYPES OF PALLETS WE PRODUCING

WOODEN PALLET WITH 2 LIFTING DIRECTIONS

Wooden pallets are both light and strong. The two outermost wooden bars are pushed back to help the wooden pallet bear the load better, and the wooden bars do not crack due to nails. Can be lifted from both front and back directions.

- Product Characteristics - Wooden pallets with this wing-style structure are better load bearing and more durable than conventional structures. However, its disadvantage is that when stacking containers, it will be more difficult to stack and will easily crack when the ends of the wooden bars rub against each other. Can be used for forklifts, do not use hand forklifts because this type of wooden pallet will be stuck on the bottom when the hand forklift wheel goes in and will soon break.

WOODEN PALLET WITH 4 LIFTING DIRECTIONS

High load-bearing wooden pallets are convenient for both storage and transportation. Structured by large and strong wooden slats. Can be lifted from 4 directions of the pallet.

- Product characteristics -The product is designed to withstand high loads. Can be used for both hand forklifts and machine lifts. Convenient to use for both storage and transportation of containers. The product can be dried or dried naturally or sterilized with medicine or heat sterilized depending on usage needs.

PLYWOOD PALLETS

Made of plywood, it has the advantage of being lightweight and especially for pallets that need to have a solid top; plywood will have a flat and seamless surface.

- Product Characteristics -Because the pallet surface is completely sealed, there is no need to worry about the product getting moisture from below penetrating the product on the pallet. Can be lifted in all 4 lifting directions or 2 lifting directions depending on the design. Can be used for both hand forklifts and machine lifts. Convenient use and optimal volume for container transportation. Anti-mold is better than natural wood pallets because it has been subjected to high heat drying since plywood production.
